Introduction

Chiltern Learning Trust recognises the need for the school's structure and employees to adapt to change and, as far as possible, will aim to provide security of employment for employees by careful forward planning. However, from time to time the needs of the Trust may mean that a re-organisation and/or different staffing requirements are necessary.

This model procedure has been devised by Chiltern Learning Trust's HR provider after consultation with recognised trade unions.

The roles and responsibilities set out within this procedure should be read alongside CLT's scheme of delegation. Template letters may need to be adapted accordingly.

1. Purpose of Procedure

1.1. This procedure provides:

- a method of responding promptly to organisational change, recognising that reorganisation and restructuring is sometimes required in a school setting
- a mechanism whereby employees and representatives are involved in the process
- a fair way of managing the effects of change on the employees concerned
- guidance to ensure that schools comply with their statutory obligations for collective consultation where these apply

1.2. The situations in which this procedure may apply are:

- restructuring
- 'downsizing' a work group arising from a reduction in the amount of work
- changes in terms and conditions of employment

2. Timescales

This procedure sets out statutory timescales for consultation where there are proposed redundancies. However, wherever possible, it is essential to allow sufficient time to undertake the required process. In planning for organisational change, adequate time must be allowed for meaningful consultation to be undertaken, for implementation of the changes and for contractual notice periods to which employees are entitled. The process will therefore often need to begin a number of months prior to the date that any proposed new structure takes effect.

3. Planning to avoid redundancies

Schools should plan ahead to avoid any staff surplus if future reductions in staffing and/or significant restructuring is likely. In order to avoid compulsory redundancies, the following strategies should be implemented as appropriate:

- three-year budget planning and proactive action to minimise any likely deficit
- natural wastage; holding vacancies and restricting recruitment in relevant areas of staffing
- filling essential vacancies internally
- reducing the use of supply and agency staff
- where organisational change is envisaged, recruiting staff on a temporary basis 'due to a forthcoming school restructure'.

- seeking volunteers for voluntary redundancy or reduction in hours. It is good practice to seek volunteers for voluntary redundancy from all staff, including those outside the affected group, where this may avoid compulsory redundancies.

4. Procedure for restructuring and /or ‘downsizing’ in a work group

4.1. Stage one – developing the proposal

4.1.1. Any restructuring process will follow the principles of the Education (Review of Staffing Structure) (England) Regulations 2005. Where it is identified that a restructuring or downsizing exercise may be required, the Headteacher will develop a report setting out the proposal for change and submit this to the governing body/trust board (model report at appendix 1). Any staff governors should be precluded from consideration of the proposal at this stage.

The proposal report will include:

- the vision for the restructuring
- reasons for the proposal
- background and context
- current position
- proposals
- structure charts showing both existing and proposed structures
- financial impact
- posts affected by proposals
- proposed means of implementing the change (see paragraph 4.4). Where it is proposed to apply redundancy selection criteria, where possible, these should be specified and included in the report.
- any measures to avoid the need for redundancy or to keep redundancies to a minimum
- timetable for consultation, decision making and implementation
- consultation feedback arrangements
- any particular equality groups that may be adversely affected
- support available e.g. employee assistance programme (Health Assured)

The Trust’s HR provider should be consulted on the preparation of the proposals and this report. It is good practice for trade union representatives to be advised in relation to any organisational change at the earliest opportunity in order to facilitate their early involvement.

4.1.2. Following approval by the governing body, the proposal should be communicated to affected staff and their trade union representatives at the earliest opportunity. The governing body/trust may delegate responsibility for undertaking the review of the staffing structure to the Headteacher. Subject to the agreement of the governing body, the above report will be used as the basis for an employee consultation paper. (See model at appendix 2). The financial impact may be included in summary form.

Relevant draft job descriptions and person specifications for proposed new posts should be developed and indicative grades included (after having taken advice on likely grades from the Trust’s HR provider) and, where being used, the redundancy selection criteria. Where new job descriptions are required, time should be built in for these to be evaluated.

4.2. Stage two – consultation

- 4.2.1. All affected staff will be invited to attend a formal group consultation meeting (invite letter at appendix 4). For many proposals, it will be relevant to invite the whole school, as the consequences of restructuring can impact directly and indirectly on all staff. Recognised trade union representatives must also be invited to attend this meeting. Seven calendar days' notice should be given to employees and trade unions of this meeting. Copies of the employee consultation paper will be made available at the meeting, together with draft job descriptions, where possible, and a copy of the Organisational Change Procedure. Where individual employees may be directly affected by the proposals (for example where their posts may be deleted), headteachers will want to meet confidentially with these individuals on a one to one basis in advance of the formal consultation meeting so that they will feel prepared.
- 4.2.2. At the meeting the Headteacher, who may be supported by governors and an HR Adviser, will present the employee consultation paper and respond to any immediate questions. The arrangements for feedback and questions on the proposals will be provided in detail and employees will be made aware that alternative proposals put forward by them, or by trade unions on their behalf, will be given serious consideration. The employee consultation paper will be sent/made available to all employees and trade unions not attending the meeting, including any employees not at work due to sickness, maternity/paternity or other reasons. This meeting will commence a period of formal consultation.
- 4.2.3. The consultation period will normally be 30 days within the school term. If the proposals will directly affect more than 20 employees the governing body must ensure that the duty to consult under Section 188 of the Trades Unions and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 as amended by the Employment Rights Act 1996 is met. This will apply where it is proposed that 20 or more redundancies/dismissals may be required at one establishment over a 90-day period. Under these circumstances, consultation with recognised trades unions must be for 30 days (45 days if 100 or more employees are affected) and should be with a view to reaching agreement on the management and reduction or avoidance of redundancies in the school.

Where there are 20 or more people affected (i.e. potential redundancies), the Headteacher will commence consultation with the trades unions by sending a 'section 188 letter'. Advice from the Trust's HR provider should be sought in the preparation of this letter.

The Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 states that the following information must be provided to trades unions:

- numbers of employees affected
- categories of employees, such as teachers/support staff or teaching assistants/administration staff
- total number of employees by category
- the reasons for the potential redundancy dismissals
- the effective date of any dismissals
- how redundancy pay will be calculated
- methods or criteria for any redundancy selection
- process and timescales that will be followed – i.e. application of the school's Organisational Change Procedure
- the number of agency workers temporarily employed by the school
- the department in which any agency workers are employed and the nature of work being undertaken by them

A model letter for this purpose is included at appendix 3. A copy of the letter should be sent to the relevant trade unions

- 4.2.4. The consultation period provides the opportunity to explore any alternative options, in particular where these could avoid or reduce the need for compulsory redundancies, before a decision is made by the governing body. All suggestions submitted during the consultation will be considered and responses provided before a final decision is made.
- 4.2.5. During the period of consultation, the headteacher (or other senior manager) will offer a one to one meeting with those directly affected by the proposals. The employee may be accompanied by a work colleague or trade union representative at the meeting. A guide for these meetings is attached at appendix 5. The headteacher may meet with other staff less directly affected on a group basis as appropriate.
- 4.2.6. At the end of the consultation period the proposals will be reconsidered by the governing body together with any feedback or alternatives that have been put forward. Governors will make a determination on the final structure taking into account all of the information available.
- 4.2.7. After the governors' determination, staff will be informed of the final structure and/ or agreed change and the proposals will then be implemented. (See appendix 7 for an example of an implementation plan.)

4.3. Stage three – implementation

- 4.3.1. Before implementing the new structure compulsory redundancy avoidance measures, identified in the consultation document, will be implemented.

4.3.2. Fixed term and temporary employees

Where there are temporary employees in the affected work group(s) these will be included in the consultation process and in the formal Section 188 consultation process if it is required. Any proposals which will affect this group of workers will be included in the employee consultation paper.

- 4.3.3. Any employee who is engaged on a fixed term contract or temporary contract and who has two years continuous service, or will have by the date at which redundancies take effect, will be treated in the same way as employees on indefinite contracts.
- 4.3.4. The school should terminate the contracts of employees engaged on temporary contracts issued specifically 'pending a structure/organisational change' at the school as a first step to avoid the compulsory redundancy of other employees in the work group.
- 4.3.5. The contracts of other temporary employees (with less than two years' service) should also be examined to determine whether the condition of the temporary contract will be met in the relevant period, for example a contract for a Teaching Assistant linked to a named child and where the child will leave the school before or soon after the implementation date of the proposals. Under such circumstances, the post holder's contract need not be renewed.

4.3.6. Voluntary redundancy

If there is a requirement to reduce the number of posts in the structure, the headteacher will seek volunteers for redundancy before the implementation phase begins. Applications will be considered in light of avoiding compulsory redundancy and will have regard to the operational needs of the school. Acceptance of volunteers is not guaranteed and will take account of a range of factors, including the overall cost, whether a redundancy situation exists and the schools need to retain particular knowledge and skills.

- 4.3.7. If the number of volunteers is in excess of what is needed, the school will establish objective criteria by which to select the number of volunteers needed from the relevant work area.
- 4.3.8. Voluntary redundancy payments will be calculated in the same way as compulsory redundancy payments.

When these steps have been completed the new structure will be implemented. Advice should be sought from the Trust's HR provider in such circumstances.

5. Implementing the new structure

The methods used to implement the new structure will depend on the existing circumstances and the particular needs of the school or trust at that time. Implementation of the new or amended structure will usually be achieved using the methods and strategies described below. It may be necessary to use a combination of criteria and methods of selection. This will have been set out in the consultation documentation.

- 5.1.1. Post deletion applies where an employee's existing post does not appear in the new structure and there are no posts that s/he can be slotted into or any suitable posts against which s/he can be ring fenced. Under these circumstances the process may move straight to a potential dismissal meeting with the headteacher, see 4.5 below.
- 5.1.2. Slotting in will happen at an early stage and applies where:
- there is more than an 70% match between the job content and the skills and knowledge required between the existing (substantive) post and the new post and
 - the remuneration of the existing and new post is broadly the same and
 - there is the same number of, or fewer, existing post holders and new posts

Slotting in will usually apply where the two posts are the same grade. In certain circumstances employees may be considered for 'slotting in' to posts one grade above or one grade below where the job content of the new posts and skills required are very similar to the new post. Advice from the Trust's HR provider should be sought in such circumstances. The employee will be advised in writing using the letter at appendix 17.

- 5.1.3. Ring fenced interview / selection process - in the case of a restructure situation, where there are posts in the new structure that may constitute suitable alternative employment for existing employees, a selection process will be carried out to determine the employees most suitable to those roles. This will usually be by way of interview but may also incorporate other relevant objective information as set out below. Any redundancies will usually be identified through non-appointment to available posts following the methods below.

Ring fenced interviews/selection process may apply where:

- existing posts have been deleted and new posts created in the structure that represent suitable alternative employment for post holders in terms of the job role and skills required and pay and hours are comparable but where the criteria for slotting in have not been met.

or

- an individual cannot be slotted into a new post due to an insufficient job match but there is one person and one post. The interview process is to establish whether the employee has the necessary skills and knowledge to undertake the role now needed.

or

- there are a number of posts being deleted from the existing structure and there are fewer posts of a similar kind within the new structure. An existing postholder may be ring fenced against a post at a lower grade where this would constitute suitable alternative employment and, in some circumstances, may be ring fenced against a post at a higher grade, for example where there is a significant job match and redundancy may be avoided.

This selection process will determine who will be appointed to the new posts and thereby identify those at risk of redundancy.

- 5.1.4. Affected individuals will be informed that they are within a ring fence, the post(s) for which they can apply and the application details. A simplified application form at appendix 13 can be used if a formal application process is deemed appropriate.
- 5.1.5. Selection to ring fenced posts will usually be achieved via interviews. Interviews will be conducted on the basis of the critical skills, qualifications and knowledge required for the new role. These 'critical criteria' should be highlighted on the person specification. Critical criteria will be identified as those requirements that are considered the most important for the role. Experience should not normally be included, unless there are statutory or similar reasons to do so. Specialist knowledge and qualifications/training can be included if relevant and key to the post.

Where appropriate, other relevant, objective information may be taken into account as part of the selection process. This could include relevant tests, written submissions from the employee, management assessments or consideration of employment records such as performance appraisals. Where this is the case, it will be made clear to all affected employees.

- 5.1.6. The headteacher must ensure that methods used for ring fenced assessments are objective, fair and related to the role. The process should be applied consistently to all affected employees.
- 5.1.7. Appointments to posts via ring fencing (unless employees are slotted in, based on a 100% job match) will be subject to a statutory trial period of four weeks. The trial period can be for a longer period providing this is agreed in writing prior to the start of the trial period and only to take into account of reasonable additional training.
- 5.1.8. Where an employee has been appointed to a post where a trial period is applicable, at the same time as s/he is notified of their appointment to the new post, s/he should be given notice of termination of the existing contract by reason of redundancy. The trial period will commence the day after the notice period expires. Should the trial period be deemed unsuccessful – either by the school or the employee – the contract may be terminated at the end of the trial period by reason of redundancy without a further period of notice. Advice from the Trust's HR provider should be sought in such circumstances.
- 5.1.9. Recruitment to new posts applies where there is a new post(s) within the structure and no existing employee can be slotted in and there are no employees to whom it can be ring fenced. In some instances, it will be appropriate to make new posts available internally in advance of the implementation of other strategies to reduce the number of employees who may be put at risk of redundancy. Otherwise this can be done at the end of the process either internally, where employees remain at risk of redundancy, or externally if not.
- 5.1.10. Recruitment to unfilled posts applies where posts in the new structure remain unfilled at the end of the implementation phase. Such posts may be advertised internally in the first instance where employees remain at risk.

5.1.11. If, as a result of the above processes, an employee secures a post which is at a lower grade than their existing post or is for fewer hours per week or weeks per year than currently, pay protection may apply for a limited period. (For details, see paragraph 9)

5.1.12. ‘Downsizing’ a work group applies where the new structure requires a lesser number of posts of the same kind, e.g. teacher, teaching assistant. Criteria for selection will have been the subject of consultation and will be applied by the headteacher, in consultation with other managers as appropriate, after formal consultation has been concluded. Criteria for redundancy selection may include for teachers:

- overall subject needs
- special subject requirements
- qualifications to teach certain age groups
- ability to teach different subjects
- additional qualifications
- performance
- attendance (excluding absence for maternity and disability related reasons) and disciplinary record
- critical skills and experience (not based on length of service)

and for support staff:

- performance
- attendance (excluding absence for maternity and disability related reasons) and disciplinary record
- qualifications
- critical skills and experience (not based on length of service)

Judgements of individuals against the redundancy selection criteria will be objective and evidence based and under no circumstances based either directly or indirectly upon the age of individual employees. Suggested selection matrices are attached at appendix 8 and 9. The lowest scoring employee(s) will be selected and identified as being at risk of redundancy.

5.1.13. Priority status for redeployment opportunities

Employees who are pregnant, are on maternity leave, adoption leave or shared parental leave or who have recently returned from such leave have statutory protection in redundancy situations and have the right to be offered a suitable alternative vacancy, if one is available, without the requirement for interview before being made redundant. This gives this group of employee’s priority access to redeployment opportunities over other affected employees.

Schools must contact their HR provider in relation to this.

5.2. Potential dismissal meeting

5.2.1. After the implementation strategies are completed, any employee who has not secured a post in the new structure will be invited to attend a potential dismissal meeting with the headteacher, who will be advised by an HR Adviser and a member of CLT’s central team, representing the employer (letters at appendix 10 (downsizing) and 11 (post deletion).

5.2.2. Seven calendar days’ notice will be given of this meeting. The employee may be accompanied by a work colleague or trade union representative. The invitation to the meeting will also invite the employee to submit written representations to be considered at the meeting if s/he disagrees with being selected for redundancy. If the employee was selected as a result of the application of redundancy selection criteria s/he should be provided with their own scores with their letter of invitation. Employees should not be provided with the scores of other employees. These written representations should specify clearly why s/he believes his/her selection for redundancy was flawed.

The meeting will consider:

- the redundancy selection process – including the individual's scores where a redundancy selection matrix has been applied.
- any representations made by the employee
- any possibilities for redeployment
- the timetable of the redundancy
- details of redundancy payment the employee would receive
- support available.

5.2.3. The meeting may be adjourned whilst the headteacher considers any new information made available at the meeting and takes advice from the HR Adviser. The meeting may be reconvened and the employee informed of the outcome. This outcome will be confirmed in writing and if the decision is that the redundancy still stands, notice of the termination of employment on the grounds of redundancy will be given in writing within seven calendar days (Letter at Appendix 12).

5.2.4. The employee will be given a period of notice on full pay in accordance with his/her contractual entitlement. For teachers, termination dates will be in accordance with Teachers' Pay and Conditions.

5.2.5. Appeal

The employee has a right to appeal against selection for redundancy. The appeal must be in writing to the Chair of Governors and sent within five calendar days from the notification of the outcome of the potential dismissal meeting and should set out, in detail, the reasons for the appeal. The employee may be asked to evidence when the appeal letter was sent to the Chair of Governors. Details will be provided of where any appeal letter must be sent. The employee will be given seven calendar days written notice of the appeal hearing and all information to inform the appeal will be sent to the employee and the governor appeal panel at the same time (the letter can be found in appendix 18).

The format for the appeal hearing is set out in appendix 19.

Any successful appeal against dismissal will result in the withdrawal of written notice of redundancy or dismissal.

6. Process for changes to terms and conditions

6.1. This will apply in circumstances when the school determines that the terms and conditions of employment of some employees are no longer appropriate to the schools needs and vision. This could include:

- reduction in contracted hours
- changes to post grade (e.g. after job evaluation)
- changes to weeks worked or times when attendance at work is required. Please note: under some circumstances, a reduction in hours as a result of a reduction in work required may constitute a redundancy and the process described above may be required. Headteachers should seek the advice of Luton HR Traded Services team.

- 6.2. Such revisions require a change to employment contracts and therefore necessitate a period of consultation with affected employees and similar steps to those outlined above. Provided the reasons for the changes proposed are reasonable, they can be implemented lawfully provided a proper process has been followed.
- 6.3. When the headteacher identifies that a change of this kind is necessary, a report to the governing body should be prepared specifying the proposal, the reasons for the proposed change, the benefits and any financial impact.
- 6.4. Subject to the views of governors, the headteacher will convene a consultation meeting with affected staff and trade unions as above. This will be informal consultation with a view to reaching an agreement to the change. A short period (for example a week) should be given for employees to consider the proposal. If, at the end of that period, employees agree to the change (undue pressure should not be applied under any circumstances) a meeting with the headteacher or senior manager should be convened with each employee affected (see invite letter at appendix 14). This meeting will give formal notice of the change, in accordance with that employee's contractual entitlements, unless an earlier date is mutually agreed. The letter at appendix 15 should be used to confirm this change.
- 6.5. If no agreement is reached during the informal stage, a formal consultation meeting should be convened by the headteacher, as above, followed by a period of formal consultation of up to 30 days depending upon the extent of the changes proposed. Trade union representatives should be invited to this meeting. If the changes affect more than 20 employees then a formal Section 188 consultation process with trade unions and accompanying timescales are required as set out at 4.2.3. The headteacher will continue to consult with employees and their representative during this period in good faith with a view to achieving a mutually agreeable outcome. A one to one meeting will be offered during the formal consultation period to all affected employees (a template for the meeting can be found at appendix 6). The headteacher must review and consider each affected employee's individual circumstances and carefully consider feedback arising from the consultation process.
- 6.6. The headteacher will continue to consult and negotiate with affected employees throughout the consultation period in order to try to reach a resolution. At the end of the consultation period the proposals should be re-considered by the governing body together with all responses and feedback from the consultation process as above. If the governing body determines that the proposals should be taken forward, then affected employees, as a last resort, will be invited to an individual meeting (letter at appendix 14) at which the formal notice to terminate the existing contract will be issued, alongside the offer of a new contract, with the revised terms and conditions. Where accepted, the new contract will take effect the day after the existing contract terminates. Pay protection may apply where the change results in a reduction in salary as a result of either a change in grade or hours worked per week. (a letter can be found at appendix 15, to be used where agreement has been reached). Please contact the Trust's HR provider if agreement is not reached and notice of dismissal is to be given 'for some other substantial reason' (SOSR).
- 6.7. Employees who decline to accept the offer of re-engagement on the new terms and conditions may appeal against the decision to terminate their existing contract. The arrangements for, and the structure of, the appeal is as outlined in appendix 19. An employee whose appeal is unsuccessful will not be entitled to a redundancy payment.

7. Redeployment

- 7.1. Where an employee in the school has been given notice of termination of contract on the grounds of redundancy, the headteacher should review each vacancy as it becomes available within the school and determine whether this could constitute suitable alternative employment for the employee at risk. This judgement will have regard to the job role, pay, hours and employment conditions. If a vacancy is suitable then the headteacher will provide an opportunity for the affected employee to apply for the post in advance of advertising it either internally or externally. If successful, notice will be withdrawn, no redundancy payment will be made and pay protection arrangements may apply.
- 7.2. As Chiltern Learning Trust is a multi-academy trust, employees at risk of being made redundant, may be redeployed to a suitable position at another school within the trust. This will continue until the dismissal date is reached. The employee will be required to complete an application form, and an interview process will apply.

8. Redundancy payments

- 8.1. An employee with two or more year's continuous service will be entitled to a redundancy payment which will be calculated in accordance with the attached schedule (appendix 20). Where relevant, details of entitlement will be provided during the consultation period.
- 8.2. Where an employee aged 55 or over is made redundant and is a member of the Local Government Pension Scheme (LGPS) s/he will be awarded early release of pension based on length of pensionable service. The cost of early release of pension will be met from the school's delegated budget. It is advised that estimated costs are sought from LGPS at an early stage. The Trust's HR provider can assist with this.
- 8.3. If the redundant employee is 55 or over and is a member of the Teacher's Pension Scheme there is no such entitlement and the teacher may access his/her pension on an actuarially reduced basis. School governing bodies may decide to meet the costs of the early retirement of a teacher under these circumstances. Should this be the case, this will be determined in advance of the consultation period, the governing body's position will be consistently applied.

9. Pay protection

- 9.1. Teachers' entitlement to salary protection is defined in the School Teachers' Pay and Conditions Document. Currently, where a teacher secures a teaching post with a lower remuneration package, salary will be protected for a period of three years subject to any changes to the School Teachers' Pay and Conditions Document.
- 9.2. Where non-teaching staff are redeployed to a post at a lower grade, or where there is a change to contracts as a result of restructuring which results in a financial detriment, pay protection to a maximum of one grade is payable for a period of 18 months in total. This is broken down as nine months in full and for a further nine months protection of 50% of the difference. Pay protection is restricted to a one grade difference in pay.
- 9.3. Where an employee is deployed to a post with fewer contracted hours than their current post, pay protection will apply to a maximum of 20% of their existing contracted hours pay for the first nine months and half of this amount for the following nine months.
- 9.4. The cost of pay protection will be met by the school.
- 9.5. Contact the Trust's HR provider for a pay protection calculation if applicable

10. Support for Employees

It is acknowledged that organisational change can be stressful for employees affected by it and schools will take appropriate supportive steps. Those employees who have been given notice of redundancy are entitled to reasonable time off to look for alternative employment. The school will give serious consideration to any requests for relevant training made by potentially redundant employees. The school will also provide details of the schools Employee Assistance Programme (if applicable).

11. Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) (TUPE)

- 11.1. In particular circumstances, governors may make the determination to transfer work to another employer or transfer into the school work currently carried out by another employer e.g. school meals catering. Under such circumstances, the Transfer of Undertakings legislation may apply. If a governing body determines to convert to academy status then the TUPE legislation will apply to all current employees of the school as they transfer to the academy or MAT.
- 11.2. The Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of Employment) Regulations 2006 (as amended by the Collective Redundancies and Transfer of Undertakings (Protection of employment) (Amendment Regulations 2014) set out the rights of employees and the duties of an employer under circumstances Where a transfer is proposed. The TUPE process can be complex and in places specific and it is strongly advised that the advice of the Trust's HR provider is sought at the earliest opportunity.

12. Modification Order (RPMO)

- 12.1. Section 162 of the Employment Rights Act (ERA) provides that a redundancy payment will be calculated on the basis of the period of continuous employment. The effect of the 'Modification Order' is that this will include continuous employment with bodies on the Order.
- 12.2. In both cases the usual rules of continuity apply so that if there is a break of more than a week (running from Sunday to Saturday) between two contracts continuity will be broken (except where there is a redundancy and a new job is taken up within four weeks - see below).
- 12.3. Where a new job offer is made by another Modification Order body.

If an employee who is under notice of redundancy receives an offer of a job from another Modification Order body before the termination of his or her employment and takes it up within four weeks of the end of the old employment, there will be no dismissal for redundancy payment purposes.
- 12.4. This may lead to difficulties for an employer if they are unaware of a job offer that has been made to an employee under notice of redundancy. It is advisable, therefore, before making the redundancy payment to ask the employee if he or she has been offered another job with a Modification Order body and, if so, whether he or she intends to take it up within four weeks of finishing his or her current job.
- 12.5. If an employee does take on a new job with a Modification Order body in these circumstances, the provisions relating to a trial period in the ERA will apply. Therefore, if the employee decides not to continue with the job during the first four weeks he or she will be able to terminate the contract (whether with or without notice) and receive a redundancy payment from the old employer.

Appendices

Appendix 1

Template - Proposal to Governing Body

Organisational Change proposals to the governing body should include the content below. This content will be adapted to inform the employee consultation document to launch formal consultation.

1. The vision for the restructuring / organisational change

This section will set out what the school hopes to achieve by the changes planned and how these will contribute to the school's development priorities and plans and to positive outcomes for pupils. Where changes to terms and conditions are proposed, the reasons why the changes are required must be clearly set out.

2. Background and context

Dear Colleagues

STAFFING REDUCTIONS:SECTION 188, TRADE UNION AND LABOUR RELATIONS (CONSOLIDATION) ACT 1992

I am writing to you as (insert name of school) is facing the need to reduce support staff numbers in the near future.

In order to meet the operational needs of the school against ongoing cost challenges, it is anticipated that the school will not be able to financially sustain the current (support/teaching) staff team in the foreseeable future from (insert date) therefore a new staff structure is proposed.

The reasons for this reduction in staffing is to ensure the staff structure meets the current needs of the school community, whilst making best use of the school's budget resources.

Any reductions in staffing will be managed in accordance with the locally agreed Organisational Change Procedure agreed with your union/association and adopted by the governing body.

Clearly, it is the school's and the governors' wishes that if at all possible compulsory redundancies are avoided and, to that end, the Headteacher and the Governors will be exploring strategies for compulsory redundancy avoidance as identified in the local procedure. The current method of calculating the amount of any redundancy payments can be found in the Organisational Change Procedure.

There are (insert number) staff directly affected by the proposal restructure, however all members of staff will be invited to engage with the consultation process.

Posts affected are outlined in the table below:

Post title	Current
	Grade	Headcount	fte
(insert post title)	(?)	(number of employees?)	(insert full time equivalent)
TOTAL

Adapt as needed:

It is proposed to delete the following (insert number) posts of which (insert number) are currently vacant:

- List posts and number of employees in post (both full and part time)

It is then proposed to create the following (insert number) posts: (Grades to be confirmed):

- List posts and number of employees in post (both full and part time)

Include details of any agency workers temporarily employed at the school.*

Proposed Changes to Terms and Conditions of Employment:

It is proposed to (insert changes proposed)

Draft job descriptions for all new posts will be made available to all staff early in the consultation process.

Further details will be provided in the employee consultation document.

Should there be compulsory redundancies then it is proposed that the selection methods as set out in the Organisational Change Procedure will be followed. Any compulsory redundancies will take effect from (insert date) at the earliest.

The period of (insert date from insert date to) constitutes a formal period of consultation with you. In anticipation that you would wish to enter into a period of consultation on the above matters, I would like to invite you to meet with me on (insert date) at Insert time at (insert location). Please confirm with me directly if you will be attending this meeting.

At (insert time) on this date I will hold a formal consultation meeting with all staff at which your attendance is welcome.

The consultation will be conducted in good faith and with a view to reaching agreement.

Yours sincerely

Chair of Governors/Headteacher

Organisational Change, Proposed Restructure - Formal Consultation (insert name) School

As you may be aware, there have been recent discussions around a review of the school's support/teaching staff structure.

Our governing body have recently been presented with a proposal and have given permission for a period of formal consultation to commence with school staff.

I am writing to let you know that your substantive post is potentially affected by this review.

The school intends to enter into a period of formal consultation with affected staff and the trade unions commencing on (insert date) 2021. The formal consultation period will end XXXXXXXX 2021.

A group employee consultation meeting has been arranged for:

(insert day and date) 2024 at 3.30 pm in (insert location)

Please make every effort to attend this meeting.

You will be provided with an employee consultation document at this meeting, it will provide further detail on the proposal and outline the timetable for formal consultation.

The school has a strong commitment to consulting with employees and obtaining views before taking any decision, in particular where this affects their employment. In addition, given the numbers of employees potentially affected, the school has a statutory duty under the Trade Union & Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 and subsequent amendments to consult with you.

It is important to emphasise that when we enter a period of formal consultation, no decision has been made and your input and comments are welcomed.

At the end of the consultation period, all comments and suggestions received will be used to make an informed decision.

Throughout the consultation period and any following decisions, we will be acting in accordance with the school's Organisational Change Procedure.

You will be invited early in the formal consultation to attend an individual meeting to discuss how the proposals will affect you, ask any questions or address any concerns that you may have. If you wish to be accompanied at any meetings during this process by a work colleague or a trade union representative, please note that it is your responsibility to ensure that they are available to attend.

(Insert name of school) Implementation Plan

As you are aware, we have been consulting with you and the trade unions recently on plans to make changes to the school's support staff/teaching structure. Formal consultation concluded on (insert date) 2024.

You all had the opportunity to attend a 1-1 meeting and were invited to engage with the consultation process. A number of valuable and positive comments were made during the consultation process.

All comments submitted as part of the formal consultation have been acknowledged and responded to. Thank you for your input.

I reported to governors on (insert date) 2024 and they have given approval for the new structure to be implemented as follows:

To delete the existing posts of:

- (insert post titles, number of posts and fte)

To create the following new posts:

- (insert post title, number of posts and fte)

Finally, I will be proposing to change the terms and conditions of employment of the following post holders:

- (insert proposed changes)

It is the intention to progress with the implementation detailed below as quickly as possible.

In implementing the new structure, the overriding aim will be to secure appropriately skilled people in each role in the new structure.

We will aim to conclude appointment to the new structure as quickly as possible to minimise the period of uncertainty for staff.

Implementing the new structure

COMPLETE EACH SECTION ONLY IF APPLICABLE – IF NOT APPLICABLE PLEASE DELETE

It will then be the intention to appoint to the new structure as follows:

1. Post deletions

The following posts are proposed for deletion:

- (insert post title, grade and fte)

Each of the affected employees will receive a letter inviting them to a meeting to discuss the next stage of the process.

2. Selection criteria for posts in the new structure - downsizing a work group

This applies where a new structure requires a lesser number of posts of the same kind. Criteria for selection will include skills & experience, attendance, performance and conduct. A written selection criteria process (downsizing matrix) will therefore be used to appoint employees to posts in the new structure.

There will not be the requirement for an interview for any of the posts.

Appointing to posts in the new structure:

New posts in the new structure are as follows:

- (Insert post title and grade)

Process for appointment:

The following post holders will each be invited to complete a shortened application form evidencing selection criteria.

Insert ring fencing arrangements where needed
(insert job title and grade)

Detail interview arrangements

Judgements of employees against the selection criteria will be objective and evidence based. The lowest scoring employees will be at risk of redundancy.

Unfilled posts

If posts in the new structure remain unfilled following the interview process they will usually be opened up to affected staff meeting the criteria who have not secured a post and remain at risk of redundancy before being released to redeployment, internal appointment and finally external recruitment.

The Next Stage:

'Notice' meetings will be scheduled, if necessary, following the appointment process, at which information on estimated redundancy payments and pension benefits (if applicable) will be available.

Notice will not be given until recruitment to the new structure has been completed and suitable alternative employment within the new structure has been explored.

Any queries please speak to me directly.
